Melange describes the past 4 years at SCW for what they have been – a mixture of learning, activities, phenomena, changes, processes and most of all – memories. These memories are now locked into a past only pictures and words may reveal. The graduating class of תשל"ט commends these pictures and words, and traces our roots in SCW in a melange spanning our 4 year history.

תורה ומדע
Judaica
and Science. Words that have a meaning, words that convey the essence of our sojourn here at Stern.
As one walks through the two buildings that make up our campus, one can see the study of both Torah and science taking place simultaneously.
The integral connection that we have established between these two is the foundation upon which we hope to base our future lives.

What is Stern College? It is a mixture of friends, experiences, and activities. It is a place where anything and everything occurs, where people reach out to each other in a spirit of closeness. Our varied talents, abilities and backgrounds have enabled us to learn and grow from each other, further enriching our college education. From dorm to class, from cafe to offices, from phones to fencing, our shared experiences will be carried with us as we each go our separate ways.

Kochaviah '79 is dedicated in memory of Golda Meir, mother of the modern state of Israel, and perhaps the greatest stateswoman of our people. Women leaders are prominent in our history; Miriam was a prophetess, Devorah a judge, and Golda Meir a Prime Minister. An American citizen like the majority of our senior class, Golda Meir was above all an idealist. Confident in her beliefs, Mrs. Meir left her adopted country to pursue an uncertain future on a kibbutz in Palestine. A witness to statehood and active in politics, as a grandmother, Golda Meir was called upon to unify the country. Under her leadership, Israel grew and developed into the modern state we know today.

This simple yearbook dedication is by no means adequate, these two pages cannot do justice to this "Eshet Chayil," this "Woman of Valor." Therefore, we the graduating class of 1979, attempt to personalize this dedication by choosing Golda Meir as our role model. In seeking to establish ourselves in this world, we turn to Mrs. Meir as a source of great inspiration. Her inner strength and character are qualities we wish to emulate in shaping our own lives. Our four years at Stern College cannot be summed up by mere grade averages. We are a synthesis of many varied experiences and inspirations; therefore, our potential, as was Golda Meir's, is unlimited.

REMEMBERING

DR. REMES

"And so life goes on." An expression I've heard innumerable times, it is sometimes an attempt to console and reconcile, sometimes to dismiss with a shrug. In a sense, a gross oversimplification. Now, , it has become an immediate reality for me. Suddenly, I find myself in a situation of "living without". I have lost my professor Dr. Nathaniel Remes, A"H.

A friend of mind aptly described Dr. Remes as my chemistry rebbe. Not, that is, to the exclusion of others: I have had several fine teachers, who have given to me from their knowledge and from themselves, and to whom I feel strongly attached. Yet the title is especially appropriate for Dr. Remes because he was the head of the department, and because I spent so much time working with him on my independent study project last year.

It took me a long time to get used to Dr. Remes. For a couple of years I felt uncomfortable and nervous in his presence. He often came on harshly, and there were times when I truly disliked him. But one gets used to people, begins to discover new aspects of them and to see them differently.

Much of that discovery was made within the past year, when I spent many hours working with Dr. Remes: in the lab, planning my project, reviewing for the GRE's, or talking — about chemistry, Torah, parents and children, the ups and downs of Y.U. I remember being part of more than one discussion in the lab following meetings that had left Dr. Remes angry or upset. And one afternoon last year, he asked me why I used to be afraid of him. I could only laugh and say I did not know. Of course I knew, but my nervousness had faded and its reasons had been refuted. Dr. Remes once joked. "Come on, you know I don't bite you. I only yell at you." True, Dr. Remes made me feel my mistakes sharply.

But he also encouraged me with remarks like "You see, you do know something, Miss!"

My chemistry rebbe — no profanation of the term. I take Torah U'madah seriously (A reaction flask contains five hundred milliliters of maasei HaShem), and Dr. Remes encouraged that belief in both his teaching and his personality. He somehow helped me feel that there was a place for me in chemistry.

My chemistry rebbe. Chazel advise, "Haamidu talmidim harbei". I once heard this explained as "teach them to stand on their own feet". I think Dr. Remes gave me some of that in many ways.

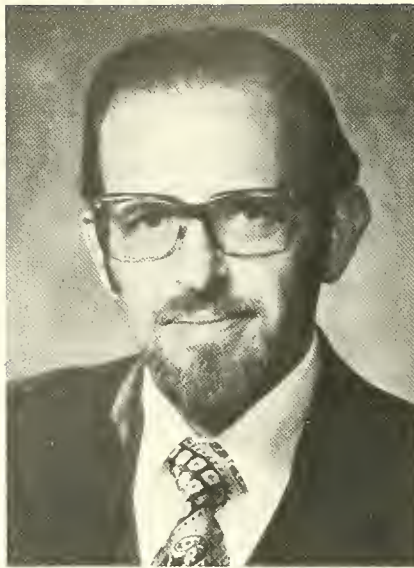

And so life goes on — hesitantly, with a gap left in it. But that ongoing need not be a process of shrugging and going about our business. If we want to — and if we are sincere in our desire — that ongoing can be a credit to the man we must live without, because Dr. Remes in some ways taught us how to stand on our feet.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

September 27, 1978

Dear Graduates:

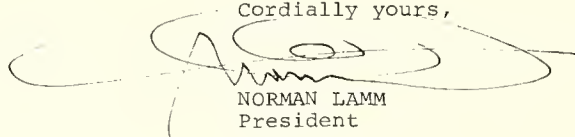

It is a pleasure for me to greet you, the graduating seniors of Stern College for Women, class of '79.

You have come to us from diverse backgrounds, and have been molded by your Stern College experience into a group which, if not homogeneous, shares the same transcendent commitment that binds you to the rest of the Yeshiva and to the whole House of Israel.

In the Talmud, the study of Torah is considered as achieving a double goal: It is a mitzvah in its own right, and it is propaedeutic to the performance of all other mitzvot.

It is proper to extrapolate from talmud torah to education as a whole: your years at Stern were important in and of themselves, and will undoubtedly occupy an important and warm place in your memory for the rest of your lives. But in addition, it was a preparation for your future. Together with your teachers, I hope that these years of preparation will prove fruitful to you as you assume your rightful roles as creative Jewesses, transmitters of our sacred heritage, wives and mothers, and proud citizens of our country.

Cordially yours,

NORMAN LAMM
President

NL:gf

Greetings by Mr. Max Stern to Kochaviah
Stern College for Women Yearbook

It is with great pleasure that I extend warmest greetings to the 1979 graduates of Stern College for Women.

Each facet of the college experience has contributed immeasurably to your personal development. In the classroom, in the laboratory, in cooperative efforts with faculty and administration, you have acquired a richer understanding of the Judaic heritage, a knowledge of the liberal arts and sciences, and a sensitivity to the processes of responsible citizenship.

In the years ahead, much of what you have learned--facts and formulas, names and dates--will fade from memory. More lasting than the details of any discipline are precepts and values that you have imbibed here. This residue will determine the course of your life.

May you continue to carry on the traditions of Torah even as you go forward to meet the challenges of career, home, and community service. I offer my very best wishes for the future.

The class of 1979 leaves Stern College at a time of active ferment within the Jewish community. Among the issues of primary concern are ones that relate specifically to women, their emerging roles, their educational aspirations. At Stern College you have had the opportunity to consider and to debate such issues in a nurturant environment. This environment, I trust, has developed within you a strong sense of self, and of community and an appreciation of the fact that style may change but substance remains inviolate. This unique experience that is Stern College has given you tools to meet the future - a dedication to the learning of Torah and the observance of our traditions and a strong liberal arts education that is the foundation of a creative professional life.

You leave Stern College taking with you the best wishes of the faculty, staff and administration. Your concerns will always remain our concerns and we trust that our concerns will always be yours. May you go from strength to strength in all your endeavors.

INTRAMURALS

In the Spring Term of 1977, Prof. Arthur Tauber, Chairman of the Health and Physical Education Department at Stern College, suggested that Physical Education major Sharon Markowitz initiate an intramural program for the students. Notices were sent to all the students informing them that on October 25, 1977, Stern College would hold its first intramural basketball game.

During the basketball season all teams played well. The '78 Sophomores entered the championship game with a 3-0 record, while the '78 Juniors entered with a record of 2-1. Their only upset was caused by the Sophomores.

The championship game was held Dec. 28 during Club Hour, making it possible for all students to come and cheer for their team. The Sophomores were not playing as well as they had in the past, and the Juniors pressed their advantage with some clutch scoring by center Ella Leffler and forward Rebecca Subin. The other members of the team included Tzippy Bomzer, Serena Jakobovits, Felice Grossman, Sharon Markowitz, Adriane Stein, and Ilene Lehman. The Juniors topped the Sophomores 40 to 28 as Prof. Tauber officiated. All players were duly rewarded for their outstanding efforts by receiving trophies at the Athletic Dinner at the uptown center of Y. U.

The Seniors and Juniors tipped off the second season of Intramurals on Sept. 19, 1978. The Seniors entered with the same team as the previous year except for the addition of Annette Weisman. Due to the Juniors lack of teamwork and the addition of new players, the Seniors were able to clobber the Juniors for the first game of the season, 56-12. In their next game, the Seniors beat the Freshmen 44-28. Leffler dominated the boards while Subin and Markowitz scored the points. The Sophomores were then forced to compete with the undefeated Seniors. Unfortunately, they lacked the assistance of their best scorers and lost by a wide margin, 63-11.

The championship game was played on Dec. 12, 1978. It was a Stern original because the game was aired on WYUR the following night. Once again, the Seniors were just too tough to beat!

Naomi — a gift of roses
planted in our lives,
we lovingly nurtured your growth.
Tending to your needs,
with warmth, affection, and concern;
seeing you grow from an innocent youthful bud
to the beautiful velvety fullness of a mature flower.
Celebrating in your years of joy and laughter
And supporting you in times of sorrow and tears.
We followed your growth with pride
As you bloomed in your aspirations;
Always bringing beauty, softness and sweetness
to our lives.
Now as you begin a new path
We water the seeds you yourself planted
And press the memories we shared together
in a book as an eternal treasure.

Dear Mom and Dad,

A simple thank-you is but a token of my deep appreciation, respect and thanks to you both.

Philo's analogy is quite accurate, "What God is to the world, parents are to their children."

You nurtured me well, providing a warm and loving household as my universe. Your love of God and love of man have served as a model after which I have molded my outlook and way of life.

Thank you for your patience and love.
